A Costly Campaign.

A number of Fulton county ex-candidates can sympathize with this single candidate—who, according to law must file a schedule of his expenses and which reads as follows:
Lost 4 months and 23 days can-campaign, 1,349 hours thinking about election, 5 acres of cotton, 23 bushels of corn, a whole sweet potato, 4 sheep, 5 shoats and 1 beef sent to a barbecue, 2 front teeth a considerable quantity of hair, personal skirmish, gave 97 plugs tobacco, 7 Sunday-school books, 4 pairs of suspenders, 4 calico dresses, 7 dolls and 13 baby rattles.
Total 2,859 lies, shook hands 23, times, talked enough to have made in print 1,000 large volumes size of patent office reports, kissed 126 babies, kindled 14 kitchen fires, cut 3 cords of wood, pulled 774 bundles of fodder, picked 774 pounds of cotton, helped pull 7 loads of corn, dug 14 bushels of potatoes, and 27 buckets of water, put up 7 pies, was dog bit 4 times, watched by baby, cost $3 to have re-acted.
Cleaned out 3 barrels of flour, 50 pounds of meal, 150 pounds of butter, 37 pounds of butter, 12 dozen umbrellas, 13 lead pencils, 1 Bible Dictionary, 1 mow blade, 5 overcoats, 5 boxes paper collars, none of which have been re-acted.
Called my opponent a pre-am-bulating liar—doctor's bill $10. Had arguments with my wife—result: flower vase smashed, 1 broom handle broken, 1 dish of hash knocked off the table, 1 shirt bosom ruined, 2 handfuls of whiskers pulled, 10 cents worth of sticking plaster bought, besides spending $1,778." Thus is the doctrine of publicity practiced in the most ample man-

Compliments Hickman.

A well known traveling man, talk- ing to a number of friends in a hotel this week, said Hickman was the best business town for its size he knew of. Her merchants gave a better rating, 90 per cent. of discounting their bills, and do more business than a number of towns twice her size which he named in this section.
This gentleman is in a position to know whereof he speaks, too.

May Not Run.

Watkins Cole, of Fulton, while in city Saturday, told a Courier reporter that the report in circulation to effect that he would oppose Roper for County Clerk by running independent was all talk. While he considered the matter, he has made up his mind to do so or not to do so.

to the Democratic Voters of Fulton County.

To those who assisted me in my race for County Attorney, I desire to say that so long as I may live I will never be able to repay you, and to those who were against me I have no ill feeling whatever. I tried to make an honest, straightforward race and have been fairly and honestly beaten, consequently I will at all times be ready to give all the assistance in my power towards helping Mr. Roney and other nominees of the primary.

Respectfully Yours,
ALLISON TYLER.

Will Hold Special Term.

A special session of court has been called by Judge Jones to meet in Union City Dec. 7. In the call for the special session he states he is going to impanel a grand jury for investigation of alleged crimes, indictments of guilty parties if found and other business. This session, it is stated, will be for the trial of any who are indicted by the present grand jury.

If it is decided to re-indict any of those indicted by the present grand jury, there can be no question of its legality. It is claimed Gov. Patterson has advised this step.

The Other Side of It.

The soldiers who rapped a man over the head with a gun in this city last week claim that "the other fellow" started the trouble, and that the story which the stranger told Judge Roney was untrue.

Private McBuray claims that the man seemed to be hunting trouble—that he made no apology after running against him, but instead told several people he would just like for the soldiers to "start" something; and when they met again he braced himself to run against one of the soldiers full force. This brought on more talk—the talk brought on the fight.

The story as told last week by the Courier was given as the stranger and another man, who saw the trouble, told it to Judge Roney.

Gain 144 in County.

The Election Commissioners met at the court house Thursday and certified the result of the vote for president in Fulton county. They finished their task Friday at noon.

For Bryan, 1,705.

For Taft, 636.

Four years ago the presidential vote in Fulton county was Democratic, 1,561; Republican, 560. In the past four years the Republicans have gained 76 votes, and the Democrats gained 144.

Democratic majority in the county, 1,069. Four years ago our majority was 1,001.

Small Blaze Thursday.

The fire alarm was turned in about 11:30 Thursday night, when smoke was discovered rising from the frame building on Kentucky street which is used by Gray & Rice as a glove factory. The fire was found to be in a pile of waste cloth, and was doubtless discovered just in time to avert a bad fire. Mr. Gray was in the building about 11 o'clock and thinks when he struck a match that part of it must have flew off into the pile of waste. Robt. Isler and Edward Prather discovered the fire as they were going home.

Elected in Graves County.

The following are the winners in the Primary in Graves county last week:

R. B. Wallace, Sheriff.

J. W. Monroe, Judge

M. B. Hollifield, County Attorney.

Lee Mason, Clerk.

W. D. Dodds, School Supt.

R. R. Byrn, Jailor.

W. S. Boyd, Assessor.

J. E. Carmen, Surveyor.

Roper-Bowers.

Oscar Roper, a prominent young stockman of Obion county was united in marriage Wednesday evening to Miss Ellis Bowers of near Fulton. The ceremony was beautifully performed at the home of the bride on State Line road. The happy pair are at home to their friends at the home of the groom in Union City. Both are well known in this vicinity.

CURTIS-MORSE BOTH GUILTY

Jury Recommends Curtis to the Clemency of the Court.

New York.—Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis Thursday were convicted of violation of the federal banking laws, in that they had misapplied the funds of the National Bank of North America, of which they had been officers, and made false entries in the books of that institution.

On the charges of conspiracy against the United States they were acquitted. Curtis was recommended to the mercy of the court.

Both men are in a cell in the Tombs. The court absolutely refused to accept bail for them pending their appeal for a new trial.

The law provides for each of the charges of which they have been found guilty a penalty of not less than five years and not more than ten years in jail.

Following the passing of the sentence their counsel will apply for a writ of error and ask that, pending decision on that, the men may be admitted to bail.

BEATEN ALMOST TO DEATH

Night Riders Whip Prominent Georgian in Presence of Family.

Monticello, Ga.—Soon after midnight the home of C. E. Williams, a prominent citizen of this place, was visited by night riders, who brutally beat Williams and terrified his family. No reason is known for the attack, although Williams had received two letters warning him that night riders would visit him. There were half a dozen men in the party, and they broke into the Williams home about 1 o'clock. The family was aroused to find armed men in possession.

Mrs. Williams and the children were forced to keep quiet and the night riders beat Williams until he was unconscious. After leaving the night riders fired many shots into the Williams home.

The town is aroused over the outrage and detectives have been employed to ferret out the night riders.

NOT WEAKENED BY DEFEAT

So Says John Sharp Williams of the Democratic Party.

Washington.—The defeat of the national Democratic ticket has not weakened the faith of the Hon. John Sharp Williams, minority leader in the house of representatives, in the virility of Democratic principles nor banished from his bosom the hope of their ultimate triumph. Before leaving here Thursday night Mr. Williams said, in refutation of the pessimistic suggestion that the defeat of Bryan and Kern meant the disintegration of the Democratic party, that Democratic principles would not perish as long as the nation's institutions continued, and not until their destruction would Democracy lose its virility.

"While it is true," continued Mr. Williams, "that the Democratic party has not been in control of the national government for twelve years, it has rendered the country invaluable service in checking and holding back the Republican party in its tendencies to dangerous legislative excesses."

RATES MAY BE BOOSTED.

Railway Presidents Hold Secret Meeting in New York.

New York.—A secret conference was held Thursday by about a dozen prominent railroad presidents. It was understood that they discussed an advance of freight rates.

One of the presidents who attended the conference said that there would be a general advance in freight rates very shortly. It is proposed to put them up about 10 per cent. This action is defended on the ground that the railroads are unable to sell securities to raise money for needed improvements.

The advance of 10 per cent. is expected to yield about $200,000,000, and this money will be expended for improvements. The advance of rates is being bitterly opposed by associations of manufacturers throughout the country, and the reported action of the conference will stir up the freight rate dispute once more.

WILL ENFORCE THE LAW.

Gov. Campbell Will Call Out Texas Rangers If Necessary.

Galveston, Tex.—Gov. Campbell announced that the State liquor license law shall be rigidly enforced to the letter in every city and hamlet in the State. He says he will call out the State Rangers if necessary to enforce the law. This announcement is coincident with the heavy vote given his Republican opponent Tuesday. The governor says the saloons must remain closed on Sundays and from midnight till 5 o'clock in the morning week days. Local authorities having disregarded the governor's instructions, he has given orders to send out the Rangers and to begin with Bexar county.

New York.—General election returns received up to midnight show the following results:

Practically no change is indicated in the complexion of the national house of representatives.

Gov. Chas. E. Hughes has been re-elected in New York State by about 54,000 plurality.

Bryan has carried Nebraska.

The Republican plurality fell off heavily in the Middle West, a matter thoroughly surprising to Republicans. Speaker Cannon has been re-elected by his usual majority. Representatives Payne of New York and Balzell of Pennsylvania have been re-elected, and the house of representatives probably will continue under its old regime. Mr. Payne will have charge of the new tariff bill in the extra session, which Mr. Taft will call immediately after March 4 next.

There has been a shrinkage in the Democratic vote in several of the Southern States, notably in Virginia and North Carolina.

Mr. Taft has carried Wisconsin by a plurality estimated at 75,000, a falling off from the Roosevelt plurality of 155,000 in 1904.

Kentucky has gone safely for Mr. Bryan by between 10,000 and 15,000.

TAFT CARRIES NEW YORK CITY.

Tammany Traded Bryan for Chapler Wherever Possible.

New York.—The State of New York has again registered its verdict in favor of the Republican party, and gave a plurality for William Howard Taft for president of the United States which may be in excess of 175,000.

The determined opposition of the race tracks and other interests which he had antagonized during his term as governor, seriously cut into the vote of Gov. Hughes, and his majority will be not more than 50,000 and may fall under that figure.

The most remarkable feature of the election was the manner in which Bryan was slaughtered in New York City.

REPUBLICANS HOLD CONGRESS.

New York.—The Republicans will remain in control of both branches of congress and in all probability by a slightly increased majority. It is impossible at this time because of the incompleteness of the congressional returns, to give an absolutely accurate statement of either the senate or the house, but on the best returns available, the Republicans appear to have made a net gain of one in the house of representatives. Solid delegations of Democrats, with returns from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Carolina and Texas. The Republicans apparently have solid delegations in Delaware, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

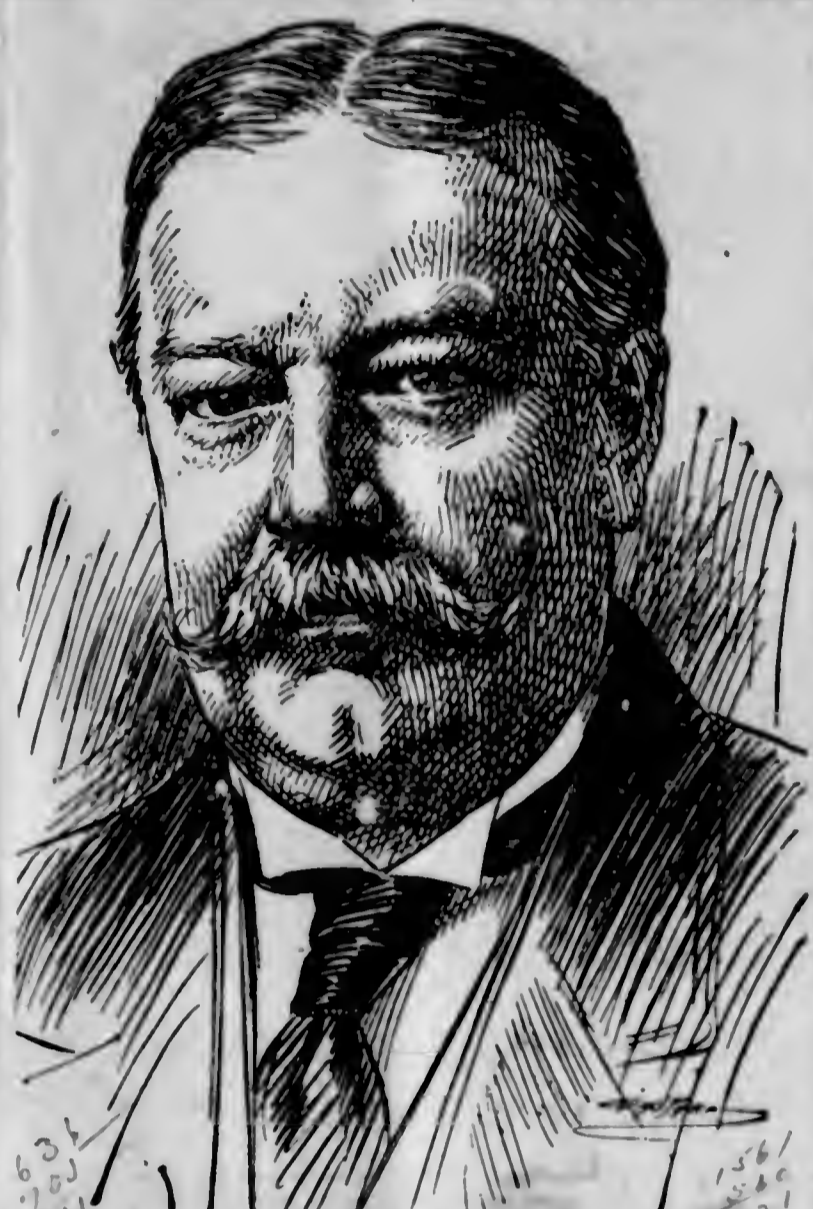

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul.—While the city returns indicate the election of Gov. Johnson by a plurality of from 10,000 to 25,000, the later returns from the country districts have greatly modified this, offsetting the large vote of the cities and towns for Johnson by definite gains for Jacobson, Republican, for governor. That Taft carried the State by figures ranging anywhere from 80,000 to 100,000 is conceded.

JUDSON HARMON ELECTED.

Taft Will Have Almost the Usual Majority in Ohio.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Four hundred and twenty-three precincts out of 4,430 in the State of Ohio gave Taft 38,482, Bryan 33,188. The same precincts in 1904 gave Roosevelt 45,766, Parker 26,186. The figures continued to fall as the additional returns came in later in the night, and at 1 o'clock it seemed that Taft would receive slightly more than a normal Republican plurality of close to 50,000, while Harris (R.) for governor, was defeated.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

NEBRASKA FOR BRYAN.

State Remembers Native Son in Hand-some Manner.

Lincoln, Neb.—At 1:30 Wednesday morning, indications were that Nebraska had gone Democratic by a plurality net far from 10,000 for Bryan and a plurality scarcely less for the national ticket. As was confidently expected, the result was a surprise and a disappointment to Republican management, which, while admitting the State was doubtful on the national ticket, confidently expected the State ticket to be elected. The tremendous gain for Bryan in the city of Lincoln was the sensation of the election. Not only did Mr. Bryan reverse a Republican plurality of 1,600 in his home city, but he carried it by a plurality of something in excess of 600. If this is maintained throughout, Bryan has won by a little over 8,000 vote from Lincoln and Omaha and Shellenberger is elected governor by practically the same plurality.

IOWA BY 40,000.

Large Loss From Roosevelt Plurality. Labor Vote for Bryan.

Des Moines, Iowa.—The incomplete returns received at 10 o'clock indicate that Taft has carried Iowa by a plurality of from 40,000 to 50,000. This is a tremendous falling off from the Roosevelt plurality of 155,000 of four years ago, but it represents only a slight falling off from the normal plurality. The entire Republican State ticket is elected, probably by about the same plurality. Gov. Cummins probably carried the Republican senatorial primary over Maj. J. F. Lacey by a plurality of 40,000 to 50,000, a tremendous gain from last June, when he was defeated by Allison by 11,000. The indications are that the entire delegation in congress will be Republican, a gain of one over two years ago.

In Des Moines there was a tremendous loss of votes to the Republicans, due to the large labor vote for Bryan. Hull, in the Seventh district, was elected by a reduced plurality.

COLORADO.

Bryan and Entire State Democratic Ticket Won.

Denver, Col.—Estimated pluralities by counties, based on incomplete returns, show that Bryan and the entire Democratic State ticket, headed by John F. Shafroth for governor, carried Colorado with pluralities in the neighborhood of 5,000. The Democrats probably will control the legislature by a narrow margin, insuring the election of Chas. J. Hughes, Jr., as United States senator to succeed Teller, Hughes having been endorsed for the position by the State convention.

MARYLAND SPLITS BALLOT.

Baltimore.—With the official vote of one-third of Baltimore city and 21 out of 23 counties complete and estimating the missing districts on the basis of the unofficial returns, Taft had an apparent plurality tonight of 170. The indications were that seven Bryan and one Taft electors had been chosen.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The election in Florida resulted in the usual Democratic majority of from 18,000 to 20,000.

TEXAS.

Dallas, Tex.—Returns indicate the election of the entire Democratic ticket, both State and national, by the usual majority.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Columbia, S. C.—South Carolina will give Bryan about 50,000 to 60,000 majority, while the State and congressional tickets are overwhelmingly Democratic.

ILLINOIS PLURALITY REDUCED.

Demces Ran Behind Taft—Stevens Carried Chicago by 8,000.

Chicago.—The Republican National and State tickets have gained a complete victory in Illinois, although the pluralities will probably fall short of those obtained by the party in the Roosevelt campaign of 1904. Taft has carried the State by approximately 170,000 votes. Chas. S. Demces, Republican candidate for governor, ran far behind the national ticket, but has been elected by a plurality of about 100,000 over Adlai E. Stevenson.

Round About the State

What Is Going On in Different Sections of Kentucky.

RIDERS BURN STORE

Of Kentuckian Who Sent His Niece to Reform School.

Owingsville, Ky.—The general merchandise store and tobacco barn of Jacob McClure was burned at Sherburne, this county, by night riders. Bloodhounds were brought from Lexington and put on the trail. Mr. McClure had sent a niece who was making her home with him to the Reform School last spring and feeling has since been very bitter against him. Mr. McClure had received several notices signed Night Riders stating that he had too much property at stake to meddle in other business. The loss is $12,000, with no insurance.

KENTUCKY FEUD

And Eight Barrels of Election Whisky Result in Killing.

Lexington, Ky.—As a result of a feud at Camp Junction, about 20 miles west of Jackson, Isiah Allen, aged 20 years, was shot and killed; Alvin Garver, aged 22 years, was badly injured, and Clarence Sherman, who died the shooting, was shot in the head, but escaped to the mountains. Eight barrels of whisky shipped into town for election brought on the trouble, although family troubles of long standing played a prominent part.

Farmer Injured in Runaway.

Newport, Ky.—Charles Bodsworth, member of the Campbell county Republican executive committee and well-known farmer of the Cold Springs district, southeast of here, was very seriously injured in a runaway accident near his home. While driving down what is known as the Bodsworth hill the team of horses became frightened and started to run away. When almost at the bottom of the hill the wagon struck a gully in the road and threw Bodsworth head first to the ground. His collar bone was broken and he was otherwise injured. His condition is serious.

Important Decision.

Frankfort, Ky.—In reversing the judgment of the Fayette Circuit Court in the case of Asher Bruton against Sarah Bruton, of Cincinnati, the Court of Appeals in an opinion by Judge Carroll holds that if a wife or a husband abandons the other, living in different states, the time required by the statute on divorce should be granted notwithstanding service is not accorded on the party sued.

Knives and Pistols Were Used.

Lexington, Ky.—Word was received here of a clash between two factions on Standing Rock creek, in Wolfe county, between the Hall and Ashley factions, in which two of the Hall boys were shot, one fatally, the other seriously, and one Ashley was fatally stabbed. Two of the combatants were arrested. The Halls were armed with knives and the Ashleys with pistols.

Kentuckian Is Stabbed.

Owensboro, Ky.—The campaign in Owensboro closed in a blaze of red fire and a sound of martial music. The Democrats and Republicans held monster meetings. After the speaking one enthusiastic young man cried: "Hurrah for Taft!" In an instant he received several cuts with a knife and is now lying in a drug store receiving medical attention.

Landon Annexes To Covington.

Covington, Ky.—Landon voted to annex to Covington by a majority of 78 votes, and just as soon as Mayor John J. Craig signs the ordinance, council of Landon will call a meeting and wind up its affairs. Then Covington will take charge of the books and other records of that city and move them to Covington.

Mr. Kehoe Lost.

Mayfield, Ky.—Great interest was shown in the election in the Ninth Congressional district because of connection of James W. Kehoe, of this city, with the tobacco growers' movement in the state. Returns received show the re-election of J. H. Bennett, the republican candidate.

Not a Shot Was Fired.

Lexington, Ky.—This was the quietest, most orderly election ever held in Lexington and Fayette county. The weather was perfect, and the full strength of both parties was voted. There was for once not a scrimmage or a scrap and not a single shot fired.

Throat Cut at Voting Booth.

Mayfield, Ky.—Ross Hughes, aged 25 years, was killed at the Kansas precinct, in this county, by Wilson Peoples, 25, slashing him across the throat with a knife. The tragedy arose over a difference of opinion in the sheriff's race.

Centrell's Majority 6,404.

Lexington, Ky.—Complete returns from the Seventh Kentucky Congressional district give J. Campbell Centrell, dem., a majority of 6,404 over L. L. Bristol, rep. Centrell ran ahead of his ticket in Boone county.

Was a Medicine Vender.

Mayfield, Ky.—Lee Marshall, whose dead body was found in a car at Monticello, was a son of Abe Marshall, residing nine miles northwest of here. Alfred Sanderson, his father-in-law, had the body returned here.

FIRE HEMMED WOMAN IN.

Mrs. Lohmeyer, Aged and Ill, Rescued After Hard Work.

Newport, Ky.—A fire, which is believed to have been caused by mice gnawing matches, broke out in the little cottage in the rear of R. G. Lohmeyer's jewelry store, York street, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that his aged mother who occupied the house, was rescued from the flames.

The fire was discovered in the early morning by a neighbor, who aroused Mr. Lohmeyer and his family.

When Mr. Lohmeyer and his family went back to rescue Mrs. Lohmeyer, the side of the building was a mass of flames and she was hemmed in her room by the shifting smoke and almost suffocated.

They fought their way in her and lifted her through a window in safety. Mrs. Lohmeyer is just 80 years old.

ON ROAD TO CHURCH

Kentucky Feud Was Reopened and Two Didn't Worship.

Lexington, Ky.—The Blue Angel feud, which raged for several years in Lee county, but which has been reopened for the past three years, and Epiphany Angel is dead and his very home is at the point of death and being the victim of the other.

The men met within sight of a small church, for which both were bound, and before the friends were aware of trouble bullets began to fly, and neither was able to reach the house of worship.

Lee county has been free of leg fights for several years, but it is feared the killing will again throw the factions into a turmoil.

Valuable Property Illegally Held.

Louisville, Ky.—Thirty suits are pending in the Louisville school board in claim to property worth about $100,000 various parts of the city and county, held to be illegally held by corporations, were filed in the circuit court. It is claimed that the defendants corporations have violated the constitution by attempting to hold this property for more than five years when they made no use of it in the discharge of their business.

Republicans Carry Ninth and Tenth.

Louisville, Ky.—Late returns from the state would indicate that the Democratic majority in the Ninth district is net in excess of 500, while it appears that the Ninth is republican by 500 and the Tenth by 1,000. Ben Johnson's majority in the Fourth will not be as large as at first reported and an estimate of 10,000 on the entire state is now conceded to the Democrats.

Democrats Carried Paducah.

Paducah, Ky.—The entire Democratic municipal ticket won easily. The interest in this ticket centered in the offices of Jailer and treasurer. The election of a Democratic treasurer means a lawsuit to oust the present treasurer, John J. Porten, a republican. Defeat of the $10,000 bond issue probably means the closing of the schools by the first of the year.

To Test Poolroom Law.

Newport, Ky.—A new plan of action to test the new poolroom law was started in the Campbell street poolroom by Bernero and Ehrlich, under separate indictments for operating a poolroom. They ask the court to order immediate trial only one of the defendants. Objection has been raised by the commonwealth.

Government Seizes Goods.

Covington, Ky.—Henry Landon, States Marshal Emmett Orr and Food and Drug Inspector W. T. Ford took an order from the United States court, seized 183 cases, each containing two dozen cans of peas, from a wholesale grocer. It is alleged that each can showed a shortage in weight.

Hung Jury.

Covington, Ky.—The hearing of the trial of Samuel Lunsford against the Hatfield Coal Co., in which the plaintiff asked for $1,900 damages, failed to have been sustained at the hands of H. C. Hatfield, superintendent of the defendant company, resulted in a hung jury.

Has Leg Amputated.

Cadiz, Ky.—Charles Aldridge, while returning from a political meeting, had the misfortune to get his leg broken near the ankle, and the bone was so badly broken that the limb had to be amputated. The accident became frightened and turned the buggy over.

Not Missing Student.

Lexington, Ky.—A telegram from Russellville, Ky., says that the man held there suspected of being Willie Smith, the student who has been missing for several weeks, admitted he was not the missing boy.

Arraigned on Charge of Murder.

Covington, Ky.—Ferry Simpson, of Harrodsburg, was arraigned before County Judge Stephens in connection with the finding of the headless body of Sepho Noble, of Jackson. He was charged with wilful murder.

Dance to Mark Social Debut of Ethel

WASHINGTON—The date for the coming out dance of Miss Roosevelt, the president's second daughter, has been set for Monday, December 24. While this will mark her debut into the social life of the younger set, as has been announced before, the first state dinner she attends will really mean her formal debut. This dinner will be the first cabinet dinner of the season and will be given shortly before Christmas.

Though the announcement sent out from the White House describes the entertainment as a "small" dance, the number of invitations will not fall far short of 1,000. The dance will be held in the East room of the White House, and, according to present intentions, will follow the plan adopted when Miss Alice Roosevelt came out, that of dispensing with the cotillion.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt have maintained that entertainments given to the young members of their family should be as personal as possible. When Miss Alice Roosevelt made her debut even the first assistant secretary of state was not invited, and, in general, that rule will be followed this year. Miss Roosevelt is only 18 years old, and the guests will probably be the youngest assemblage of the kind that ever gathered in the White House.

The fact that the dance will be given during the holidays means that a special effort will be made to have on hand Miss Roosevelt's school friends from New York and the college mates of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. Her brother will come to Washington for the occasion, and Miss Christina Roosevelt and Miss Dorothy Roosevelt, cousins of the debutante, are also expected.

In all, about 200 young New Yorkers will be invited. At least that number was present at Miss Alice's debut, and the president has been careful that his children should not weaken their affiliations with their New York friends. Young Theodore will bring with him a number of his Harvard college mates, and perhaps one or two of the friends he has made since going into the carpetmaking business. The list of those to be invited is almost completed, and the invitations will be sent out very shortly.

The debut of Miss Roosevelt is expected to introduce a very gay winter at the capital. Since the marriage of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Congressman Nicholas Longworth in 1906, the White House has been voted a dull place by young people.

Blase Bachelors of National Capital

THE man question is the most serious proposition a fashionable girl in Washington has to contend with.

Trouble No. 1 is, there aren't any men. Trouble No. 2 is, the men that there are—that's good Irish—are so spoiled to death they are a negligible quantity.

Said a religious young woman in the innermost clique the other day: "Conditions in Washington are fierce where male creatures are concerned. Men have no obligations—no responsibilities. They seem to think they are conferring a favor on the opposite sex by simply existing. Of course, for many a long day they have absolved themselves from the duty of paying dinner and party calls—it was kind enough in them to come in the first place—but half the time they don't even answer your notes of invitation. We girls have discovered that the only way to clinch the men when we really must have them at our affairs, is to catch them on the telephone before they have time to dodge. Extort a verbal promise that they will come, and to facilitate things offer to send a carriage for them as well. You might add a bunch of American beauties besides," the girl laughed sardonically, "and a handsome souvenir to boot."

"In ancestral days," the young woman went on, "I believe it was the privilege of the 'beaux' to pay all the expenses of the spree when they took the girls to balls and rooms. Not so in 1908. It's a Thanksgiving day to a girl if she can corral a partner for the cotillion, even when she pays her own subscription fee and supplies her own carriage and flowers. It takes money to be a girl nowadays. For example, one can't be anybody and not be a member of the Sixty Couples Cotillion in Washington. Tickets for each occasion are three dollars apiece, without counting the extras."

"Does the partner whom you may possibly have secured by treason and stratagem bear any of the expenses of your evening? Not by a jugful. Heavy, heavy, hangs on your poor head, financially speaking, and the beneficent bachelors in evening clothes feel that they have performed the whole office of man in simply allowing you to gush over them in gratitude for being there. Masculine stock is way above par, and a man who knows how to dance, or will dance if he knows how to, instead of swelling the mob of blase blackcoats near the exits of ballrooms, idle and unproductive, is indeed a bonanza."

Texas Doctor a Picturesque Figure

PERHAPS the most picturesque figure at the International Tuberculosis congress, in session here lately, was Dr. A. J. Heall of San Marcus, Tex. Dr. Heall is 55 years old, has been a practicing physician in Texas for more than half a century, and, because of his long record and his fidelity as a practitioner, is one of the best beloved men in the Lone Star state.

Dr. Heall's trip to Washington was intended to be the closing and crowning feature of his career. When he returns to his home at San Marcus, so he told his friends and patients before he left, it will be as a man retired from active professional pursuits—a private citizen.

The esteem in which the veteran physician is held by his neighbors is attested in a way by the fact that he was urged to make the trip to Washington by and at the expense of his friends in and near San Marcus. The fund to pay the expense of the trip was not contributed by any one philanthropically inclined person, but by the entire community. The money was raised by a popular subscription.

The doctor came to Washington on the special train of the Texas delegation, and during the week was an interested, as well as an interesting, participant in the proceedings and demonstrations of the congress.

Another enthusiastic Texas delegate was Dr. W. T. Jones of Fort Davis. The day before Dr. Jones left his home at Fort Davis to come to Washington he rode horseback 45 miles into the country to see a patient. The round trip was 90 miles. The following day he rode 60 miles to the railroad station, where he joined the other delegates bound for Washington. The doctor, being used to such experiences, was not greatly fatigued by his two trips through the country.

Here's a "Bughouse" Job for Some One

A "PREPARATOR" is now wanted by the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture to assist in making the bug business profitable to the government or to the rural communities. The ruralists have found that they had a legal excuse to advance the prices on eggs because the bug crop was cut short by the dry weather, and there were no bugs for the chickens to eat.

So the preparator is to prepare bugs for chicken feed and other uses. At the civil service examination to be held soon embryo preparators will be required to assemble ten specimens of lepidoptera that will be furnished them and the one who succeeds in matching the dissected pieces of the ten bugs will be entitled to the price, which is a position at $50 a month and board yourself or beat the landlady.

Those who fail in the examination will be entitled to admission to the bughouse on the proper presentation of credentials. Another examination will be held for applicants for the position of aid in the division of insects of the National museum. This department pays better salaries than the department of agriculture, as the salary is $75 a month. The government also wants a chief for the cattle and grain investigation laboratory.

The bureau of corporations, department of commerce and labor, wants special examiners at salaries ranging from $1,200 to $3,500 a year.

LAMENT FOR CHANGED TIMES.

Adoniram Cornet Discourses on Pre- and Post-Day Extravagance.

"Yes, three, Bill, times is changed since you an' me was doin' our courtin' in," said Adoniram Cornet, with a note of sadness in his voice, to old Andy Clover, who had come over to "set a spell."

"When we was doin' our courtin', Andy, a gal thought she was bein' treated right harnsom if a feller bought her ten cents' worth o' peppermints once in awhile, an' if he tuk her to any doin's in town she didn't expect him to go down into his jeans to the tune of a dollar or two for ice cream an' soda water an' candy at fo'ty cents a pound. My son Eli tuk his ducky-doodle to the band concert in town jistiday an' there wa'n't a quarter left of a dollar bill he struck me fer time he got home. Beats all the way young folks throw the money away nowadays. I'll ye times is changed mightily since we was boys, an' the lawd only knows what the end will be with a feller layin' out 75 cents on a gal in one day."—Purk.

15 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Burning, Painful Sores on Legs—Tortured Day and Night—Tried Many Remedies to No Avail—Cured by Cuticura.

"After an attack of rheumatism, running sores broke out on my husband's legs, from below the knees to the ankles. There are no words to tell all the discomforts and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. One day I ordered some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. He began to use them and in three weeks all the sores were dried up. The burning fire stopped, and the pains became bearable. After three months he was quite well. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."

LOCATED.

"Goodness, sonny, are you in pain?" "Now, the pain's in me—boo-hoo!"

From Frying Pan to Fire.

Some years ago, when the late Judge John Henry McCarthy was a candidate for the bench, says the Hebrew Standard, in a district populated by both Hebrews and Irish, there was displayed in an East Broadway window a banner which read: "Vote for John Henry McCarthy—the friend of the Hebrew." An Irishman on his way to the polls copied the sign and grew indignant. He remarked, "Vote for the friend of the Hebrews? I'll be hanged if I will. I'll vote for the other fellow." And he did, the "other fellow" being Henry M. Goldfogel.

A Cure.

The sinner walked along the rocky road, his bare feet torn and bleeding from bruises and wounds. He met a stranger.

"Friend," he exclaimed, "I have sinned and done wrong, I must patiently suffer the most extreme agony to save myself from eternal damnation. Can you tell me some supreme test of repentance?"

"Certainly," answered the other, with an air of experience. "Go to a boarding house and live there for a year."

PUZZLE SOLVED.

Coffee at Bottom of Trouble.

It takes some people a long time to find out that coffee is hurting them.

But when once the fact is clear, most people try to keep away from the thing which is followed by ever increasing detriment to the heart, stomach and nerves.

"Until two years ago I was a heavy coffee drinker," writes an ill stockman, "and had been all my life. I am now 56 years old.

"About three years ago I began to have nervous spells and could not sleep nights, was bothered by indigestion, bloating, and gas on stomach affected my heart.

"I spent lots of money doctoring—one doctor told me I had chronic catarrh of the stomach; another that I had heart disease and was liable to die at any time. They all died me until I was nearly starved but I seemed to get worse instead of better.

"Having heard of the good Postum had done for nervous people, I discarded coffee altogether and began to use Postum regularly. I soon got better, and now, after nearly two years, I can truthfully say I am sound and well.

"I sleep well at night, do not have the nervous spells and am not bothered with indigestion or palpitation. I weigh 32 pounds more than when I began Postum, and am better every way than I ever was while drinking coffee. I can't say too much in praise of Postum, as I am sure it saved my life."

"There's a reason."

OLD HENS NOT PROFITABLE.

Tests Show That Egg Production Decreases After the First Year.

In embarking in the poultry business don't put too much faith in any one breed being the best. It has been demonstrated by the trap nest that there is more difference in individuals than in breeds. Hens must be properly cared for, no matter of what breed. When eggs are selling at fancy prices of what good is the breed if the hens are not laying. Under such conditions some poultry raisers blame the breed instead of themselves and change to some other kind of fowl. One of the problems of the poultry raiser is to find the most profitable age of the hen. On this James Bryan, an Oregon authority says:

"Poultrymen who have kept in touch with poultry investigations during the past few years are pretty well informed on this point, but the importance of this subject is not yet generally appreciated. The writer carried on for several years at the Utah experiment station a line of experiments with the object of determining the value of the hen at different ages for egg production. The same hens were kept year after year under similar conditions and a record kept of production and of food consumed. These experiments proved that the hen is different from the cow, which retains or improves her production with age. The first year was the most profitable, and there was a gradual decrease in productivity each succeeding year. It is safe to figure this decrease at 25 per cent. each year. With average prices for food and for eggs it is not profitable to keep hens after they have finished their second year of laying. The first, or pullet, year is very profitable; the second will give a satisfactory profit, but during the third year the egg yield will seldom pay for the food consumed."

"These conclusions apply only, of course, where the eggs are sold at market prices. Fowls that have a special value as breeding stock should be kept longer, but the notion that the old speckled hen is the good layer should not be cherished unless she is caught in the trap nest. The fact that she sings a joyful lay, paints a comb a brilliant red and scratches a vigorous scratch should not be accepted as sufficient grounds for continuing sentence."

"It is safe to say that the poultry keepers of this state would be many thousand dollars in the pocket by rigorously killing off the hens every two years and replacing them with new stock—with the exceptions noted above."

"Where the pullets and hens are allowed to run together it will be necessary to mark them, otherwise it will be difficult to separate the old stock from the young when it is desired to market them. The usual method of marking is to punch a hole in the web between the toes when the chicks are hatched. This is easily and quickly done with a punch which may be purchased from the poultry supply houses for 25 cents. A number of different markings may be made in this way. Where the practice is to dispose of the hens every two years it will be sufficient to mark them every other year."

IMPORTANCE OF COMB.

Breeders of Fine Stock Pay Much Attention to Comb.

There is perhaps no part of the pure bred bird that receives or should receive more attention than the comb. A good comb will often give style to a bird otherwise faulty. The bird with a good comb is often adjudged before the rest of it is examined. The standard allows eight points for the comb, all of these being for shape alone. It is well for the breeder of fancy fowls to know the comb requisites and to breed accordingly with an ideal in view.

Where the breed requires a small, neat comb, care must be taken in feeding meat. Too much meat promotes growth of comb, and in the Mediterranean breeds may cause crooked or falling comb. Excess of heat will also increase the size of the combs. Long exhibition tours with constant showing in heated rooms will often permanently destroy the neatness of a comb. Particular Leghorn breeders will not permit the hen to mother the chicks after they can keep them comfortably in a roomy brooder, and will not use a brooder which has a cloth hover touching the heads.

The comb is a good indicator of disease. It has been said that the hen carries her health certificate on top of her head. The exception to this rule is in liver complaints. The first symptom of this disease in its later stages is an unnaturally bright comb, often mistaken for vigorous health. The comb has disease peculiar to itself. There is "white comb," a scurfy condition of the comb due to unsanitary surroundings, which is treated by washing with carbolic soap and anointing with zinc ointment. Favus is another disease of the comb, something of the same nature as white comb, but more severe. Favus is caused by a vegetable parasite or fungus; white comb is not.

The Roosters.

As soon as the young rooster begins to crow, you should either feed him to the threshing gang or sell him in the market catalogued as the "old rooster" variety. Rooster flocks should be constantly culled and those which do not meet the standard from a breed standpoint should be promptly disposed of in some way. From the roosters our flocks develop and by constant weeding out the flock gradually improves in standard.

Conundrum for the Sexes.

For the Girls—Could you love a man who wore false hair on his head when he had enough of his own? Who paints his face and improves his skin as you improve (?) yours? Who pinches his feet with small shoes, his hands with small gloves, his waist with corsets, and then if he is not been deformed enough, ties huge bustle to his back?

For the Boys—Could you love a girl who defiled her mouth with tobacco and loaded the air with fumes of cigarettes and cigars, who staggered home several times a week the way for liquor, who bets high at cards and horse races, and swaggers around the streets with questionable companions?

Rheumatism Recipe.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the following valuable, though simple and harmless, prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

The "Drinkless Drink."

Maxim's noiseless gun has been outdone. The drinkless drink is now on the market in the shape of an evaporated drink of whiskey made into a paste.

There are many reasons why the Hickman toper will hail it with delight, and the manufacturer is making an effort to introduce it in territory where the ordinary moist drink is prohibited by law.

The tabloid "drink" looks like cherry gelatine nestling in a salve box. It smells a little like old rye. It can either be chewed or drunk. It is guaranteed to reach the right spot and produce the desired effect either way. To take it dry one has only to turn the box upside down and catch the gelatine as it drops out. If a wet drink is desired the gelatine can be easily dissolved in a little water, and makes a man's size drink.

The effect the tabloid is going to have on the whisky traffic cannot be prognosticated. Instead of going out during the sermon, the thirsty one can chew a tabloid and have all the effects, even the odor, without leaving his seat. The possibilities are too numerous to mention.

The election is over, the Republicans have beat us fairly and squarely, and there is nothing to do but take our medicine.

They have made the people many promises—which we hope they will fulfill—and which politically they have every opportunity to make good.

If they fail, it places them in a bad light; if they succeed, we are equal beneficiaries with them.

In county matters, the winners have passed under the wire; the crowd in the primary grand-stand has dispersed. The man who bet a wheel-barrow ride has paid the debt.

It is time now that all lay down their arms, and support the men we selected through the primary. The Courier is a Democratic paper—run by Democratic men—and we believe it is our duty—and yours, Mr. Democrat—to support the men nominated last week.

There are independent candidates—who are clean men and gentlemen—whom the nominees will have to run against. We like them all, because we have no reason to do otherwise, and because they are our neighbors and friends; still, we believed it was to the interest of the Democratic party to go into the primary. We voted in it and will support the winners.

Our policy was, and is, to give every man a square deal.

We have done no "knifing;" and tried to influence none in their choice of men, further than supporting our first love—Democracy.

Some folks have looked askance because we went through the campaign without insulting the Republican voter—without giving some of the county office-seekers the worst of it, and incidentally laying up a stock of future unpleasantness for ourselves.

Frankly, that was our business.

We were under obligations to no man, or set of men, in the campaign; nor are they indebted to us for anything—winners or losers.

There were matters of a personal nature that we could have exploited during the days of vote-soliciting which would have created a greater demand for the Courier—would have hurt one and helped another—but we refrained from robbing Peter to pay Paul—and then sand-bagging Paul. Neither fear nor favor shaped our course, but rather justice and common honesty. If the Courier cannot win on this platform, we shall go down.

We treated with silent contempt all overtures made to us to dig up the old skeleton of county friction. It is our aim to "let the dead rest in peace." Such breaks on the part of a man with an ounce of grey matter under his hat is unpardonable. It is nearer the epic of a child.

But as one people—as one party, we should apply our energy in accordance with vox populi, and in so doing, we will support the county ticket.

The ticket is a good one; composed of a set of men as good as any county can produce.

Among a lot of other foolish wagers on the election, a man in Nashville must roll a peanut, pushing it with a tooth-pick, a city block on one of the busy streets. Of course, he will have a good crowd watching him.

The State has won the first blood in the clash with night riders in the courts at Union City. Judge Jones has sustained Gov. Patterson interpretation of the law, and denied the writs of habeas corpus. An appeal will be taken.

Ex-Sen. Carmack Killed.

As a sequel to the recent bitter Democratic primary for the gubernatorial nomination in Tennessee, Edward Carmack, former United States senator from Tennessee, was shot and killed in a street duel Monday afternoon at Nashville, by Robin Cooper, a young attorney.

Young Cooper was wounded in the shoulder by a bullet from Carmack's revolver. His condition is not serious.

Carmack was wounded three times, in the neck, breast and left shoulder, Col. Duncan E. Cooper, father of the young man, was with his son during the affray, but did not fire a shot. It is said he stood by with a pistol in his hand.

The direct cause of the killing is a recent series of editorials in the Tennessean, a daily paper of which Carmack became editor after his defeat for the nomination for governor. The editorials in question have been vigorous in their comment on Col. Cooper and his alleged connection with what Carmack termed "The Democratic Machine" and its methods.

Col. Cooper, who is well known in business, newspaper and political circles in Tennessee and this state, had, it is said, notified Carmack that the references to him must cease. Another such editorial appeared Monday morning.

The men fought at close quarters and there were but few witnesses. It was past 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

They met on Seventh avenue. Carmack had just lifted his hat to Mrs. Charles H. Eastman, a friend who was passing. In a moment the firing began, and Mrs. Eastman was a horrified witness, at close range, so close that she heard that one of the Coopers is said to have charged Carmack with being a coward and hiding behind a woman.

Cooper's friends charge that Carmack fired the first shot, but the dead man's friends stoutly protest his opponent was the first to shoot.

He was buried at Columbia, Tenn., his home, Wednesday.

Foot Badly Mashed.

J. B. Bridges, of Farmington, Ky., while en route to Hickman yesterday afternoon, attempted to jump off train No. 1 on the Y back of the old Burton mill. He fell and had the toes on his left foot mashed off. It will be remembered that something near four years ago young Bridges' father was killed in a few feet of the same place.—Fulton News.

Must be Vaccinated.

The City Council at its last meeting passed an ordinance that every child attending the Hickman College must be vaccinated. The ordinance says that where the parents are not able to bear the expense of the vaccination, such service is to be paid for by the city. Consequently every child attending the College must present a certificate of vaccination within thirty days.

The U. S. circuit court of appeals has denied a rehearing in the Standard Oil case, which set aside the $29,000,000 fine for rebating. The litigant who has friends in the right place need not worry about the evidence. Rockefeller is no fool.

Soldier Killed Accidentally.

Sergt. Howard Rutledge, Co. E, Memphis, was instantly killed Saturday morning at Reelfoot Lake by the accidental discharge of a rifle being cleaned by Private Beecher Clark, Co. I, of Nashville. Allen Leftwich, another member of company E, was shot through the arm by the same bullet.

Sergt. Rutledge was chatting with a number of comrades when the gun Private Clark was cleaning was accidentally discharged, causing his death. Private Clark thought at first that the only damage done was a hole torn in the tent. When he looked outside of the tent a most heartrending scene met his gaze.

Sergt. Rutledge was lying on the ground gasping out his dying breath. Leftwich holding his arm was assisting the other boys who were doing all in their power to aid their fallen comrade. Everything possible was done for the dying man, but all efforts proved futile. His body was immediately prepared for burial. The verdict of accidental killing completely exonerated Clark. He is a thorough soldier and a favorite with his officers and comrades.

Clark is prostrated over the affair and has the sympathy of the soldiers in camp and also of the community.

Heavy Sentence.

Federal Judge Cochran, of Covington, Friday gave to U. S. Mail Carrier James Taylor a sentence of one year in the Newport jail for an indictment of refusing two, two-cent stamps which had been cancelled. The crime is the least in the history of the nation for which any man has got a year's sentence in prison and Taylor's friends are indignant over the result of the trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitney left yesterday for their home in Buffalo, N. Y., after a short visit with the latter's uncle, H. Buchanan. They were married recently and were here on their honeymoon.

Finis Clark has erected a new barn on the place occupied by Will Woods.

S. Q. McCreary, J. C. Hawkins, S. J. Cross and J. R. Adams attended Masonic lodge at Tiptonville, last Saturday night.

Mrs. Conly is slowly improving from an attack of fever. She is at the home of J. R. Adams. She was there on a visit but became so sick that her son was sent for.

For the benefit of the Courier readers, below are given the business men of Madrid Bend: J. C. Hawkins, cotton and corn buyer; Finis Clark, general merchant and deputy sheriff; Will Besheres, groceries; Brint Vaughn, groceries; A. Z. Scott, blacksmith and repair shop; S. J. Cross, road overseer; S. Q. McCreary, school trustee; J. M. Cathey, teacher of our public school; Alao, Dr. John D. Adams. We have a small place cut off from the rest of the county and state, but the farmers raise good crops, so you won't be lost if you happen down here.

Fire From Earthquake.

Two fires supposed to have been the direct result of the earthquake shock felt at Wickliffe, Tuesday night, destroyed two homes. The residence of John Rice, burned about 11 o'clock and he and his bride of a few weeks barely escaped death in the flames. About 1 o'clock, fire was discovered in the home of Dr. John Sheldon. It apparently was subdued and broke out again about 4 o'clock. It is believed the flues were loosened. The earthquake shock was distinctly felt there and at Blandville, La Center, Cairo and other points near the Mississippi river.

Paul Meadows Dead.

Paul Meadows, the only son of W. W. Meadows, of Fulton, died at the apartments of his father in the Meadows hotel in Fulton, Monday.

Deceased was born in Fulton thirty years ago, but some years later bought a ranch at Hot Springs, Ark., where he lived several years.

About five weeks ago he was stricken down with brain fever, from which his physicians said he would not recover.

Switchboard Ordered.

Allen Davis informs the Courier that the switchboard and material for the Independent Telephone exchange in Hickman has been ordered—also the telephones.

The equipment will be furnished by the Swedish-American Company and is first class throughout.

Let'er go.

Morris & McCall have sold their grocery store on lower Lake street to Jim Underwood & Co. Morris & McCall was one of the oldest grocery firms in this city, and they have enjoyed an excellent business for the past seventeen years or more. Mr. Underwood, who succeeds them, is also an old grocery man of Fulton and is well known to the people as being a fine business man.—Fulton Leader.

George Robinson, of Union City, was here on business Tuesday.

R. E. Smith Dead.

R. E. Smith, age 24 years, died at his home on Luther Watson's place, Tuesday, of Malarial Haematuria.

Deceased is said to have come from the neighborhood of Murray, Ky., to this place a short time ago. He was a member of the Columbian Woodmen camp here, and had only paid one assessment on the $1,000 insurance policy which he held in the organization.

Funeral services were conducted today at Brownsville by the Woodmen.

He is survived by a wife and one child. He has been separated from his wife for some time. She resides at Murray. The little daughter was with him. It will be remembered that the Fulton Circuit Court gave him the custody of the child as the outcome of a suit in the court last year.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to all our friends who so kindly assisted in carrying out and putting back in good condition the stock from our dry goods room, on the night of the fire, and also those who fought the fire so well.

ELLISON BROS.

Friday evening, Miss Estelle Reneau entertained a few friends in honor of her visitors, Miss Lady Bransford, of Union City, and Miss Mary Kelley, of Fulton. Progressive games were played with much interest and enthusiasm. An excellent salad course, welsh rarebit and other dainties made on the chafing dish, and fudge were served.

The Devil Coming Soon.

The theatre patrons of Hickman will shortly enjoy an excellent treat one of the most talked of plays throughout the country "The Devil" This is the brilliant play of the darling Hungarian writer Franz Molnar, whose wonderful wit, impish imagination, shavian satire and cheerful comedy had already flashed his fame over Europe. It is the women perhaps who loudest sing the praises of this witty and wicked, but altogether wholesome and humorous Devil. The women better than any others, understand this handsome tempter who whispers his cunning suggestions in the ears of lovers and winds his victims about his crafty fingers. The story is human to the core and holds an audience breathless throughout the play. "The Devil" and his Company are due here Wednesday night, Nov. 18.

Miss Stoker Leads.

This week, Miss Minnie Stoker leads in the Courier's Popular Lady Contest. Only once before has this young lady been able to claim this distinction. From present indications, there is likely to be a close finish for the piano, and also for the consolation prizes—a gold watch and a cut glass water set.

This week the vote stands:

Miss Mintie Stoker.....52185
Miss Lillie Coffey.....11110
Miss Dora Carpenter.....50630
Miss Virginia Royster.....10565
Miss Kate McConnell.....355
Miss Ivy DeBow.....3620
Miss Pearl Stone.....8790

It is only a short time now until some young lady will be making room in her parlor for this $400 Forbes Piano.

On Saturday night, December 12th, at 8 o'clock, the contest closes. Between now and that hour what work the contestants expect to do must be done. After the town clock strikes 8, on the evening of Dec. 12, positively no votes will be received.

The last time we count the votes, the three young ladies, who have the most votes at that time will each be asked to select a lady or a gentleman to act as one of the committee of three to receive the keys to the box, count the votes and make the awards.

Only four weeks remain in which to do your work. They will pass rapidly.

The three prizes will go to some one; why not you?

Is Bryan a Great Man?

It is difficult to place a just judgment upon any man; there are so many standards by which to measure. Napoleon was the first in the field; Disraeli first in the cabinet; others have conceived ideas of grandeur and beauty and placed them upon a page. Then, too, there is the sorcerer scientist who harnesses the intangible, lets you see through solids and permits you to hear the voices of the dead. All these are great men. But is it not true today, as in the ancient time, that leading all the rest in the book of gold is the name of him who is great, because he loves his fellow men? If so, then is Bryan great?

He is the God fearing man in politics; the Christian without cant; the politician who knows no price; the citizen whose life is an inspiration. Strong is he, with the strength that means steadfastness. The cunning cannot cajole him; the sophist cannot mislead him; the briber cannot buy him; nor can he be made afraid.

He is the leader of a great party, whose leadership no man questions; he is the idol of millions of his countrymen; he is concededly one of the great personages of the earth. Without office, as a plain American citizen, he has been the guest of Emperors, the conferee of Kings, the teacher of Senators; and yet, with all this, he is so simple in his living, so kindly in his commerce with his fellows, that the one title that fits him like a garment is "The Great Commoner."—Success.

IN FRESH COLDS

Tar-Pine

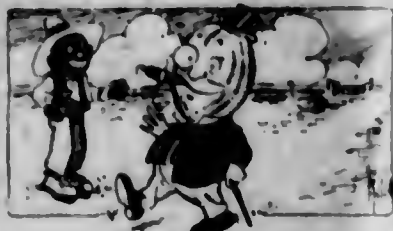

Is a most successful remedy breaking up a cough in a few hours. At night it renders breathing easy and you get restful sleep.

Mere Discernment.

Oh, give to me the perfume of the grape
And not the wine it yields;
The grace to love, not covetous nor gross,
The glory of the hills;
I pray for the divine power of mind
That knows the truth from art,
Distinguishing the jeweled drop of dew
From diamonds in the mart.

I long to know the genuine, the real—
The heart beneath the tone,
The purest karat from the gilded brass,
The noble from the throne;
Perception of the mind to separate
The good from all the wrong,
With gift to weave the truth itself into
An ecstasy of song.

By the Way.

"Oh, look who's here! Mr. Watermelon, come right in!"

Sometimes it is easier to deceive a girl than it is to fool her father's bull dog.

Married men have one consolation—after she buys her fall hat, it's a long time until Easter.

A New York poet refers to his lady's lips as "Love's apocalypse." I have done considerable flitting from flower to flower in my time, but I never kissed a woman with a kiss like that!

You cannot estimate a man's income by the kind of automobile his wife drives. A New York woman recently traded her wedding ring, her equity in their home, and two Boston-bull pups for a choo-choo car.

Injustice to the Mule.
A South Carolina minister has just concluded a stirring series of sermons abusing the meek and lowly mule. My sense of justice and innate sympathy for the under mule, as well as the under dog, leads me to defend our faithful worker who fervently sings contraalto with such "linked sweetness long drawn out."

Somehow, I always have loved a mule for the fight there is in him. Considering the size of his ears, his feet are so fanciful and trim, his coat so glossy sleek and his disposition so like "patience on a monument" waiting for something to kick at.

And, after all, why should we blame the mule for kicking? The city man kicks at the jantor, the country man kicks at the calves in the cabbage patch, and if your ears were as long as the mule's, you would kick, too!

The preacher should remember that the mule will do a hard day's work, be chummy and as calm as a cucumber for a week, just to select the psychological moment for kicking the gill out of the hired man's hand when that unappreciative worthy makes his last round of the stables for the night. At climbing mountains and passing dangerous defiles, the mule is safety itself. His step is sure and his delivery certain. Beware of the delivery! A mule would make a good billiard player; he never misses what he shoots at! When a mule crooks his neck around, looks at you out of those great, solemn eyes of his, shifts his tail slightly to one side as a woman does her skirt when she changes hands to buy a newspaper, begin to awaken your confidence.

When you see the mule throw his weight on one leg and amass all his strength for a string-halt movement, toss confidence to the winds and dodge—that is, if you have time. If you haven't time it won't make any difference an hour later, as a mule always gets what he goes after, and the handles on your coffin won't cost any more now that they will in the future when you fall into a tunnel-explosion hole!

But for all that, I love the mule. I love him, not for his kicking qualities, but for himself alone. When a mere boy I heard a mule sing for the first time! Yes, I mean that. If he had ever sung before he could have done better that time. But somehow that vocal solo endeared me to the singer, and I prefer he-having any day to a phonograph. When I become opulent and gouty I am going to have a beautiful home in the suburbs beside the rippling lake. There will be flowers and other glad things in the front yard, but to the rear will be located a wienerswurst smokehouse and an army mule that can reach upper "C" without straining his obligate clostris. Personally, I don't agree with the pastor from South Carolina.

Scissorsettes.
The following advertisement recently appeared: "Being aware that it is indelicate to advertise for a husband, I refrain from doing so; but if any gentleman should be inclined to advertise for a wife, I will answer the advertisement without delay. I am young, am domesticated and considered ladylike. Apply." etc.

The daughter of a Sioux Falls Elk has made application for a Carnegie hero medal. She bases her claim upon the fact that one evening recently a young man called on her who said he was dying for a kiss. She saved his life. Noble girl.

Home Endorsement.

Hundreds of Hickman Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Hickman people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Hickman reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places.

Read the following:
A. J. Hunziker, East Hickman, Ky., says: "I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills as they had a truly wonderful effect upon my kidneys. I suffered for some years from attacks of kidney trouble. At times there was a dull aching across the small of my back and through my loins, which made me miserable. A short time ago I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Helm & Ellison's drug store and through their use found entire relief from my troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Besheres & Jackson, proprietors of the Star Milling Co., of Columbus and Clinton, have installed a new gasoline boat between Columbus and Hickman. The trip is made every Thursday. Mose Barkett is their agent in this territory.

A New Ruling.

A recent ruling of the war department of interest to the members of the National Guard, will have the effect of barring new recruits from attending state camp at regular army maneuvers at the expense of the national government.

The war department has issued an order that no money shall be paid on this account to guardsmen who have not been enlisted for a period of six months.

The ruling applies to the national guard all over the country. In the past it has been the rule to fill up a company's roster to the limit. In the two or three weeks prior to the opening of an engagement, or the regular maneuvers. From now on, all of those who participate in these events at the expense of the government must be drilled at least four or six months. The war department holds that often men enlist simply for the purpose of attending these functions and then drop completely out of the state militia.

The government pays state troops invited to take part in the maneuvers and it pays a portion of the per diem of all the enlisted men taking part in the various state encampments. It also pays the salaries of officers during their attendance at the state camps.

If it is in the grocery line, we can sell it as cheap and as good as anybody.—Bettsworth & Prather.

Store at Fulton Robbed.

Nalfeh Bros. Dry Goods Company's branch store at Fulton was broken into Monday night and something like $500 worth of dry goods was stolen.

The robbery was a bold one, the thief breaking a large plate glass in the front of the building thus effecting an entrance. The robbery occurred some time between midnight and early morning.

No clue has been obtained as to the guilty party.

This is the second time this store has been robbed within the past three months.

What Bryan Has to Say.

On the subject of the Democratic party's defeat, W. J. Bryan has this to say:

"We made our fight upon a platform which embodied what we believed to be good for the American people, but it is for the people themselves to decide what laws they desire and what methods of government they prefer.

"I have faith that the publicity which we asked for will yet commend itself to the American people; that the election of Senators by the people will be secured; that the iniquities of trusts will arouse an opposition that will result in the elimination of the principle of private monopoly.

"I am confident that the people will see the necessity for the labor legislation and the tariff reduction which our platform demanded. I am confident, too, that the educational work done in this campaign will result in securing greater protection to bank depositors.

"The above are the most prominent reforms for which we labored, and I believe that these reforms will yet come, together with more effective regulation of railroads and independence for the Filipinos.

"I desire to commend the work of our National Committee. I am entirely satisfied with Mr. Mack as the chairman and with the members of the committee. I do not see what they could have done more than they did, and as for myself, I put forth every effort in my power to secure victory for our cause.

"The nomination came from the hands of the voters. I have obeyed their command and have led as best I could. Words will not express my gratitude for the devotion which has been shown by millions of Democrats during the last twelve years.

"Neither am I adequately to express my appreciation for the kind words which have been spoken since the election. If I could regard the defeat as purely a personal one, I would consider it a blessing rather than a misfortune, for I am relieved of the burdens and responsibilities of an office that is attractive only in proportion as it gives an opportunity to render a larger public service.

"But I shall serve as willingly in a private capacity as in a public one. God does not require great things of us. He only requires that we improve the opportunities that are presented, and I shall be glad to improve the opportunities for service presented by private life.

"In this hour of national defeat I find some consolation in the cordial support given by my neighbors, by the citizens of Lincoln and by the people of the State of Nebraska. With a Democratic Governor and a Democratic Legislature we shall be able to put into practice so much of the Denver platform as relates to State legislation, and I trust that our State will set an example that will be an influence for good in the nation."

Again we say it would be a good move to organize a local fire company, and pay them for their work. It always falls on a few willing fellows to do all the work, ruin a lot of clothes, and—maybe, be thanked.

$6,000 Blaze Monday.

Fire broke out on the second floor of Ellison Bros. Department Store at 1 o'clock Monday morning, and for a time promised to be one of the most destructive ever known here, as the flames were well under way before it was discovered. By the time the hoses were coupled up, the blaze was going out through the roof and out at the rear windows, and located as this building is, in the center of a row of business houses, it looked like the whole block would go.

Three streams of water were soon pouring through the windows, while a hundred men and boys carried goods to the street. After about 30 minutes hard work, the fire-fighters had the flames under control. It was exceptionally good work in view of the fact that we have no organization whatever for systematic fire-fighting. Had it not been, too, for a good water pressure, the whole block would have been in ashes now. As it is the damage is slight compared with what it might have been.

Ellison Bros. bear the brunt of the loss. Their stock was damaged principally by water, to the extent of something like $5,000. In the grocery department, located directly beneath the fire, torrents of water poured, which ruined much of the stock.

T. A. Ledford, owner of the building, estimates the damage to the building at about $1,000.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It seems to have started in the middle room (there being two partitions on the second floor making three rooms), which was used by Ellison Bros. as a reserve stock room. The stock on the second floor consisted largely of stoves and small hardware.

Both parties carry insurance which will cover their losses.

Additional County Returns.

The official returns of Fulton county, showing the vote cast for the seven different parties, are as follows:

Taft—Republican—636.
Bryan—Democratic—1705.
Chafin—Prohibition—25.
Debs—Socialist—6.
Gillhaus—Socialist Labor—3.
Watson—People's Party—6.
Hisgen—Independence party—1.
It will be observed that Debs and Watson were running "neck-and-neck." Hearst's Independence party has one little mark on their tally sheet.

For representative in congress the vote stands:

Jerry Porter, 511.
Ollie James, 1527.
I. O. Ford, 8.
For Circuit Judge—Bugg, 868; Moorman, 451; Crossland, 562.
For Commonwealth's Attorney—Wickliffe, 185; Smith, 1149; Hester 431.

Friend of The Trust.

Willson showed his hatred for the Tobacco Association when he accused the officials as being grafters. If he wanted to be honest why did he not tell of the letter Mr. Ewing had written to him in regard to the false statements about the management, and asking the Governor to come himself or send a man to go over the books of the Association and see where the money that came into the hands of the officials had gone? The Governor, no doubt, still has a fondness for his old client, the American Tobacco Company, and his every word and action showed he was not a friend of those who have labored hard to get a living price for their tobacco.—Cadiz Record.

SYNOPSIS.

Gerard Chambers, son of a wealthy importer and a graduate of an eastern college, was awarded a membership in the Chamber of the Gemini, a secret organization, founded by Rodney Graves. The society was exclusive, only seven being admitted. The members were known as Persons. A meeting was held and each member was awarded the "call of destiny." Chambers was told to pass a period as a sailor and not set foot in North America for a year. Then he was to be assigned to another year's exile. He must make his own living unassisted, and keep everything a secret. Jerry, an supercargo on an ocean freighter, bound for Uruana, South America, loaded with guns for enemies of that government, was captured and thrown into a dungeon. Marina Hoston, adopted daughter of Gen. Hoston, imprisoned to his wounds. Each made a strong impression on the other. Jerry was sentenced to die. Capt. Hoston freed Chambers. All three united with Gen. Haradote rebels. Chambers being made a captain. Capt. Hoston died of fever. Marina accompanied his body to burial. In a fierce battle Hoston was reported missing and thought dead. The American engineer promised aid. The plotters took Marina into Vera Cruz, secretly. Jerry following. He hurried to Mexico City, leaving the engineer to resume the chase. Chambers received society's orders to proceed to Escalon, Mexico. Mike, the engineer, trailed the fugitives to Jimenez. At Escalon Jerry received orders to search for a lost gold mine. He and Mike camped in the mountains. They discovered an old hermit calling himself Jose, who gave them a partial knowledge of the lost mine. Their efforts were unsuccessful. Mike was sent to the village for provisions and returning he found Chambers directed with fever. He nursed him back to health. By trailing one of the plotters they found Marina in a cave after overcoming all of the obstacles. Marina and Jerry continued their love for each other. The plotters were turned over to the authorities. Jerry, being still compelled by his orders to search for the lost mine, returned to the mountains, leaving his sweetheart. Mike refused to accompany him. After days of searching, Jerry, his preparations for departure, stumbled on the lost mine. He departed for El Paso, Texas. At El Paso Chambers received new orders and met Marina.

"Well, Marina, I'll tell you. You see, there are some things in connection with this business affair of mine that I shall not be able to clear up at the moment. This afternoon, as much as I regret it, must be sacrificed to matters in connection with it. Yes, yes, I know you are disappointed," he went on quickly, smoothing her hair, "but you wouldn't have me get so far and then leave it undone, would you? Of course, you wouldn't. I knew you'd say 'no,' and—"

"I have not said 'no,' Jerry, dear. I want you to—"

"Now, little girl, you must be reasonable. Is this cigar offensive to you? I should have thrown it away before I entered."

"You know I love the smoke of a cigar," said she; "but that has nothing to do with the proposed ride. Jerry, dear, can't you put off that business until to-morrow?"

Just then there was a rapping at the door. Marina responded, taking a pitcher of iced water from a bellboy. "Oh, Jerry," said Marina, "father has gone to the barber's, and he has all the money with him. Will you give this boy a coin? He has been so prompt and attentive."

"Why, certainly," said Jerry, and he fumbled in his pocket. If there ever was a man quick of thought, Jerry Chambers was that man at this moment. Pretending to have a difficult time finding money, he succeeded in opening his knife and cutting a hole in his pocket. "Great Scott!" he exclaimed; "I have lost all my change! See, Marina, see!" he went on excitedly, exhibiting the hole in his pocket. "Then to the boy: 'I'll see you later, boy.'"

They heard slow footfalls in the hallway.

"Well, well!" exclaimed Gen. Hoston, entering and extending his hand to Jerry. "We were afraid you would not be back in time to start promptly on our sight-seeing tour. The carriage is waiting for us now."

"I just thought of something tremendously important," Jerry stammered, "and I'll run along and tell Mike—that is, I'll see that Mike doesn't—I'll see you later!" He was gone, the door closing sharply after him. Before the general or Marina could recover from their bewilderment he was half way down a flight of stairs.

Mike O'Connor, lighting a fresh cigar, was waiting for him.

"Have another," said he, proffering the second big cigar.

"Thanks," said Jerry, pocketing the gift. "When are you people going to San Diego?"

"We leave—when are we people going? Why, all of us are going in a chartered car—all for our 'lonelies'—to-morrow morning."

"Mike, I'll not be able to accompany you," said Jerry, smiling as he thought of a private car. "I still have some business to look after before I settle down to pleasure. But you all go and I'll—"

"Why, of course you're going," interposed the surprised O'Connor. "If you can't get away to-morrow with this mysterious business of yours, the general will wait till you can—"

"No, no, Mike; you folks run along and I'll drift along later. Why, I wouldn't have you lose a day up there on the beautiful coast for a good many thousand dollars—no, sir, not for the San Dinias gold mine. Really, Mike, you hurt my feelings when you—"

"Say," began Mike, a picture of mingled interest, doubt and surprise, "what in the devil are you up to, anyway? What's gettin' through you? You're gettin' to be more 'n' more of a Chinese rebus every day."

"Yes, I know, Mike, and— Have you a match?"

"Your cigar's lit," and Mike fairly roared with laughter. "But," and he started towards the stairs with a determined look in his face, "we shall see about this, sir. General Hoston may have a word or so to say."

After Mike had disappeared from view, Jerry's brain began to work with lightning rapidity. He paced across the floor, his head lowered, and then moved briskly towards the door. "I'll do it—I'll have to do it!" he said to himself. "It will raise thunder, but I can't help it. Damn a Gemini's luck, anyway!" and he slammed the screen door behind him with a bang.

When Mike and the general entered the rotunda arm in arm Jerry Chambers was leaning against a building in an alley half a block away re-reading these instructions:

"Again have ye performed well, faithful one of The Gemini, but ye have not yet earned an enduring right to your position. I personally. To the best of your ability ye shall do as now directed. Beginning at two o'clock in the afternoon of the nineteenth of September, 1900, ye shall become as a vagrant in, as a penniless, roving tramp in. For six months, or until two o'clock in the afternoon of the nineteenth day of March, 1901, ye shall not possess money of any denomination; ye must earn only your food, your lodging, and your clothing. Nor shall ye be compelled to work; ye may beg as the beggar begs, but ye may beg only for food, for lodging, or for clothing."

"Within four hours after ye receive these instructions ye shall be beyond the corporate limits of the City of El Paso. It is in the command of all Gemini that ye travel in whatsoever manner ye may choose, to Portland, Oregon, and ye must not pay railroad fare. The six months specified shall be spent in the Pacific Coast States of the American Union—California, Washington and Oregon. Should ye at any time within this period be taken ill or otherwise become incapacitated ye shall become an object of public charity."

"Trampily at two o'clock in the afternoon of the nineteenth day of March, 1900, ye shall inquire at the office of the Hotel Florida, in the City of Los Angeles, California, for an envelope addressed to Rodney Graves. The contents of this envelope will give ye further instructions. May the spirit of Rodney Graves guide ye well, and the love and profound admiration of all Gemini keep your spirits and courage high."

CHAPTER XXX.

The Tramp.

Jerry Chambers, the penniless tramp, reached the western corporate limits of El Paso a few minutes before four o'clock that afternoon. He felt the vagrancy from the tips of his toes to the crown of his head. He felt more than this—he felt the coward, the criminal. He knew that Marina Hoston—was she ever more precious to him than now?—was suffering, and that he was the sole and direct cause of her suffering. He knew that Gen. Fernandez Hoston and Mike O'Connor were worrying over his absence, and that the three would carry heavy hearts with them to San Diego. He was not giving much thought to what might happen to himself, and his despair was so pronounced that he cared but little what fate had in store for him.

"Capt. Jerry Chambers, right-hand man to the president of a republic, possessor of a nation's greatest expression of gratitude and honor; son of a multi-millionaire, discoverer of a gold mine, owner of the heart of the best woman in all the world—a tramp, and outcast!" he mused, as he sat beside the dusty road a few feet beyond a post that marked the western end of the city. "I am a fairly respectable-looking tramp now, but these new clothes will be nice and clean in a few hours, I don't think."

He lay at the roadside, dreaming and pondering, until the lights began to twinkle in the city. Then, with a heart as heavy as a burden as mortal ever bore, he trudged across a field to a railroad track a mile or so away. He walked along the track for several miles, when he saw lights in a small house a few hundred yards to the north. He was very hungry and he determined to apply at the house for the beggar's first bite.

As he unlatched the gate the ugliest, fiercest-looking bulldog he had ever seen stuck his vigilant nose around the corner of the house and emitted an ominous growl. In an instant the gate was latched again, with Jerry on the outside.

"Nice old fellow," Jerry said, in his most friendly tones, snapping his fingers. The dog slowly advanced and Jerry retreated a few feet.

"Good doggie, nice—"

"Who's there?" came gruffly from the back yard, and a moment later Jerry

"I Reckon You Have Some Idea What a Hoss Thief Gits in This Neck o' the Woods."

ry was looking into the face of a big, raw-boned man of middle age. "What do you want?" the householder asked, eying the new-comer very closely.

"I'd like to get a bite or so to eat," said Jerry. "I'm as hungry as—"

"Clear out, clear out!" snapped the man, advancing towards the fence with a vicious look in his eyes. "You don't look like a tramp."

"I'll trade a good 25-cent cigar for a sandwich," said Jerry, his legs trembling.

The man leaned on the fence and subjected Jerry to the keenest inspection, and began to mumble: "Smooth-faced—six feet—well dressed—good looking!" Then he shouted so loud that Jerry was startled: "Hill, oh, Hill, come 'ere 'n' see if he don't answer the 'scripture.' Then to Jerry: 'You stand right where you are and don't make any gun play, or you'll wish you hadn't.'"

Jerry stammered something in his bewilderment, but the man, heedless of the words, merely shook his head confidently, all the time keeping his eyes on him. "Hill," a fierce-looking man with a flowing black mustache, joined the man at the fence.

"What's up, Dick?" he asked. "Squint at this feller an' do a little thinkin'."

Hill went out of the yard and stationed himself within six feet of Jerry. After a careful head-to-foot survey he said:

"It can't be fur off, Dick. I'm damned if it kin. Git out that 'ere paper."

Dick pulled a sheet of paper from his pocket and glanced over it, frequently lifting his eyes to Jerry, who stood dazed, unable to understand the unusual proceeding.

"Git the shurf," he finally said; "he'll soon set things straight."

"The shurf!" gasped Jerry. "What what?"

"That's right—show yer innocence," laughed Hill, who a few minutes later was riding towards El Paso as fast as a saddleless horse could carry him.

"What the devil does all this mean?" cried Jerry.

"You'll soon see," said Dick. "Lean up ag'in that 'ere tree and keep your hands at your side. If you make a move I'll give you a pill," and the big man took a revolver from his hip-pocket.

"Who—who do you think I am, for heaven's sake?" gasped Jerry, now as white as a ghost.

"Spick! Ransome, that's who I know you are," growled Dick, in a voice that almost took Jerry off his feet. "The shurf'll soon tell, and if you're him me 'n' Hill 'll be jus' a thousand better off. An' I reckon you have some idee what a hoss thief gits down in this 'ere neck o' the woods, I figger."

"Horse thief! For heaven's sake, I'm not a horse thief! I never stole a thing in my life! This is a mistake, and you'll soon find it out, too!" Jerry's face was red with anger and indignation and his brain was so hot that his fear of the man became dispelled. "This will go hard with you, even if you have got the drop on me with that cannon in your hand. I'll show—"

"Now, jus' quiet down 'n' keep your team at the rack a nimit 'r so," broke in Dick. "If you ain't 'Spick' Ransome, the nerviest hoss thief that ever put foot on Texas, my name ain't Dick Splavins. That's a huss sure I am. Why, this 'ere reward sheet 'scribes you to a dot. It couldn't be surer if the 'was a photograph 'longside the letterin'."

Within half an hour four other men came trailing down the road on horses, dismounting at Dick Splavins' home.

"Hill said you had 'im fer sure," excitedly yelled one of the newcomers, going so close to Jerry that the odor of bad whisky almost stifled him. "Danged if he don't seem to answer the 'scripture all right, all right, eh, fellers?" The other men carefully looked Jerry over through their bleared eyes and nodded their heads.

"The shurf 'll know fer sure," said one of the men. "Hill 'n' Tom Norton's the only ones 'round 'ere that's ever seen 'Spick' Ransome. Hill oughter be back 'th the shurf party soon. He was movin' like hell when I seen him."

Tom Norton, owner of a small ranch a few miles away, was sent for, responding with all possible haste. He was an old man and his eyesight was badly impaired. He squinted at Jerry for fully five minutes and then said:

"I ain't jus' sartin it's 'Spick,' but if it was a hoss-race I'd put a hundred to one to win hands down."

"That's near 'nough fer us, eh, fellers?" shouted a reding man, flashing a revolver over his head. "Shell we wait fer the shurf?"

"Hain't no use to delay matters," said another. "Tom is 'bout as sure as a feller kin be, an' he ain't talkin' jus' fer excitement's sake. Where'll we take him?"

"Track in the hollow," said Dick. "I'll git the rope and—"

Jerry sank to the ground in collapse.

"See the slickin' cur!" sneered one of the men, kicking Jerry soundly in the back. Jerry attempted time and time again to protest his innocence of any criminal offense, but his words were drowned by derisive laughter.

It was not long before this luckless son of Gemini, utterly devoid of physical strength, was being rudely dragged towards a tall tree in a hollow about 100 yards back of Splavins' house. The youngest of the Texans soon was climbing the tree to a strong limb 15 feet up. While the rope was being tied to the limb Jerry's hands were being bound behind him. The noose had just been prepared when the sheriff, whom Hill had telephoned to from the outskirts of the city, came up with Hill on their panting, lathered horses.

"Not so quick, men," shouted the sheriff, dismounting and running to where Jerry lay on the ground. "I'll tend to this matter if it needs 'tendin' to." A roar of protest rose from the throats of the would-be lynchers, but the sheriff asserted his authority so strongly that the men dropped back, and he brought a lantern to bear on the white face of the captive.

"Tom Norton says it's 'Spick' Ransome as certain as hell," said one of the men.

The officer looked Jerry over carefully and then, his face the picture of fierce wrath, arose and addressed Norton in this manner:

"You squint-eyed old fossil of a heathen, you, you couldn't tell a hoss from a cow! You'd jus' as soon swear this man's life away as to drink that rot-gut you're full of now! This ain't no more 'Spick' Ransome 'n' you're a decent citizen. For a cent I'd drag you back with me and let this young feller make you sweat till your mealy old hide didn't hold an ounce of meat. And if it wasn't fer your old age I'd make you skin up that tree and untie that rope. You git out o' here in two minutes or I'll make them spindle legs o' yours move faster 'n they ever moved before. Here, Splavins, you drunken fool, untie this young feller's hands and square yourself 'th him right. And do it damned quick!"

For an instant the rough men of the ranches stood back like bronze statues, looking at one another. "Did you hear what I said?" roared the sheriff.

A moment later Jerry's hands were free and he was on his wobbly legs.

"An' he ain't 'Spick' Ransome," snapped the officer.

"Then, who in hell is he?" asked Hill.

"That's none o' your business," roared the sheriff. "What are you goin' to do to square yourselves 'th him? You can't jus' look it over 'n' call it quits."

Fifteen minutes later the hand of every one of the men had grasped Jerry's almost lifeless hand, and before another hour was gone the penniless Gemini was seated at a table that fairly groaned with wholesome food. He was the guest of honor.

CHAPTER XXXI.

A Reward.

Gen. Hoston, Mike O'Connor and Marina did not go sight-seeing that afternoon. It was not until Jerry Chambers had stepped out of the corporate limits of the city, however, that they abandoned all hope of his returning for the carriage ride. Marina fretted herself into a nervous, feverish headache and was forced to take to her bed. Mike tried to assure her that there was no cause for worry, but his optimism was only affected. Down deep in his heart fear lurked.

"Maybe he has become so absorbed in that business affair of his, whatever it is," said Mike to the general, as the two sat in a quiet corner of the hotel rotunda, "that he has had no chance to come back or get word to us. Jerry ain't thoughtless, so he must be unable to send word to us."

"But his actions were so strange, so unusual upstairs," said the grizzled old warrior. "It certainly is very odd that he did not give you at least an inkling of his business here."

"General," said Mike, "that's what gets me most. Ever since I met him on that yacht he has been a big mystery to me, becoming more and more of a puzzle every day. I can't believe that he don't trust me, but, so far as this business is concerned, he has not confided in me a little bit. At times, particularly today, he has acted in a very strange manner."

"Can it be possible," ventured the general, after a long silence, "that he is mentally unsound?"

"I don't think a brighter chap ever lived," said Mike, "but his actions might suggest that there's a screw loose somewhere. I know the number of the place on Montezuma street where he said he had his business, and I'll go down there and do a little inquiry."

The suggestion received the general's warm approval, and half an hour later Mike was standing before Emanuel Fougate's desk.

"Did you have business with a lookin' young fellow here to-day, asked O'Connor. He said he had business at this number."

"Yes. There was a young fellow lookin' fellow here at noon," said Fougate. "His business here was completed in a very few minutes."

"Thin, he hasn't been here since noon?"

"I have not seen him since," said Fougate. "Well, what do you think of it? Would you mind tellin' me the name of his business?"

"I cannot tell you that, sir."

"You don't know?"

"I cannot tell you."

"Did he appear right-minded?"

"I saw nothing extraordinary about him."

"He didn't act strange or ordinary?"

"Well, come to think of it he was rather charitable," smiled Mike. "Charitable—how?"

"He instructed me to turn one of our institutions a good money and a handful of gold and I judge that he gave me something he possessed."

"That settles it," said Mike. "The lad is off. I'm obliged to you, sir. Good-day." A moment later Mike was in the hotel rotunda, and Marina's astonishment and agitation began to show him to his feet in expectancy.

"General, the lady's gone!" exclaimed Mike in a low voice. "Instead o' losin' that money, it all away—every cent of a bunch o' nuggets beside. He up his business down there in o' the eye. What's to be done?"

The general, plainly perturbed, thought for a long time and then said: "There seems to be but one thing to do; we must notify the authorities and have him recovered. An hour later Gen. Hoston and O'Connor were closeted with the chief of police, who after the general offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of the young man, patched his "plate-clothes" and various parts of the city. The reward added another $500 to the reward the officer immediately telephoned the sheriff's office.

"Sheriff Cannell is not in at the moment—out after a thief," said the chief, returning the instrument, "but his chief will telegraph the young man's description to the adjoining seats."

When the sheriff reached the late that night and learned of the reward offered he entered in a state of surprise and then passed Mike himself.

"It wasn't 'Spick' Ransome down there," said he. "It was young fellow the reward was for."

Jerry was traced to a village miles beyond the home of Dick Splavins, but there the reward came to the end of their quest. He had proceeded to a water-mill, miles out of the village, where, near of high grass, he hid away.

By walking and feeling his freight trails Jerry, his uneasy white shirt a study in sweat spots and his clothes yellow with reached a village just over the Mexican line. His weary legs led into the place in the dead of when the few streets were empty. The only lights came from a few oil lamps, and he made for the most brilliant of these, situated at the corner of a general store, as also served as the postoffice. He down on the store porch to rest a few minutes before hunting for a sleeping place. At one side of the tacked to the boards, were four placards. He got up, and four yawns, and went up to the one in bold type read:

11,000 REWARD!
THIS AMOUNT WILL BE PAID TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE OF EL PASO, TEX., FOR THE CAPTURE OF A MAN NAMED JERRY CHAMBERS, ABOUT SIX FEET TALL, FAIR FACED, BLACK SUIT, WHITE SHIRT, GRAY TIE, WITH POCKET SQUARE. (CAUTION!) SAID PERSON IS MENTALLY UNSOUND.

Jerry, his eyes bulging from sockets, merely gasped, and he not leaned against the porch would have sunk to the floor.

"Good heavens!" he managed to claim, as soon as the first words came. "They think I'm crazy, lunatic and they're after me! Laughed so heartily that he choked, and it was while he was laughing that a pair of eyes peered around the corner of the building.

Next instant he was startled by finding his arms firmly grasped of somebody behind him.

Needed Improvements.

Mississippi county could be made the garden spot of Missouri if our people could only realize the vast increase in value on all improvements that are under consideration in our county. The ditches now completed, those under construction and those that are being considered will put into cultivation thousands of acres of land that is now idle, and then it will greatly increase the sanitary condition that is feared by many outside of this section who refuse to locate here on that account.

We also need good roads and bridges, a better drainage system
and well kept farms.

This county is fast moving to the front and every property owner and especially the business men, should encourage every move towards the betterment of conditions in the country as well as in the towns.—Charleston Courier.

Colors and Heat.

"Some people add to the heat of the day by the clothes they wear," announced the woman observer. "By their lack of taste they make it worse for others as well as themselves. One recent hot day I saw a woman in a black dress and a red hat. The dress was thin and the hat light, but the colors on a broiling day proved too strong for me and I was immediately driven to a soda fountain for recovery."

A happy fireside is better than a

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burdens of it for another.

Don't let all the sunshine in nature become cloudy since you are growing older.

Times are not near so hard with some men when they want a plug of tobacco as when their wives ask for a pair of shoes.

Life will always be to a large extent what we ourselves make it.
Each mind makes its own little world. The cheerful mind makes it pleasant and the discontented mind makes it miserable. "My mind to me a kingdom is" applies alike to pleasant and monarch. Life is for the most part but a mirror of our own individual selves. To the good,
the world is good; to the bad, it is bad.

Old age, like time, wears off the gilt, and like the gilded furniture of ancient date, people also, become tarnished. At first the whole future is overlaid with gold. How brilliant it is! As the boys and girls grow up the gilt and glitter grow dim, until at last, with the journey done, we stand, the present laid bare before us—no gold there—the trappings of the hoped-to-be, musty and forgotten, the brilliancy of attainment dimmed and corroded. And only this is left to us, that far away in the past, the golden glow still hangs over the days of long ago, and for some of us far in the future a golden mist hangs just beyond the sunset, where piling clouds for gates of pearl.

Mark the young man who is coarse and disrespectful to his mother. No roseate pathway can be hers who shall sustain to him the relation of wife. Not the happiest will be the lot of those who shall come to be his children. Not to be envied is the neighborhood, even, in which he must be reckoned as a citizen. It does not matter what the mental status of that mother is, how old, how bent, how decrepit, the man to whom she is mother owes to her gentleness, kindness, tenderness and consideration. Did she fall back and did the children with superior advantages pass her in the race?
But think of her toil and trials, her devotion and denial, her mind and her years that she gave, that her children might derive the benefit.
Think of her sacrifice—no wonder if she fell behind, with heart in her home, in the buds that were hers.
There is no rank, no station, no condition that may exempt a manly man from a kind regard for a mother.

In this country, the grandest on earth in most respects, we are not sufficiently instructed in the art of manners. We are rather gruff, and sometimes unapproachable.
Manners do not make the man, as the proverb says, but manners make the man much more agreeable. A man may be noble in his heart, true in his dealings virtuous in his conduct, and yet unmannerly. A gentleness of manners gives the finish to the true gentleman. By good manners we do not mean etiquette. This is only a conventional set of rules adopted by what is called "good society," and many of the rules of etiquette are the essence of rudeness. Etiquette does not permit genteel people to recognize in the street a man with a shabby coat, though he be their brother. Etiquette is a liar in its "not at home" ordered to be told by servants to callers at inconvenient seasons.

Good manners includes many requisites, but they chiefly consist in politeness, courtesy and kindness.
They cannot be taught by rule, but they may be taught by example.

GO TO WORK.

Young man, go to work! There is no time to be idle now. You must carve out your own way if it is ever successfully carved. You must carve out your own way thru energy, perseverance and pluck. Labor is honorable, and the ignoble are those who will not work. Get you a home.
Fence a field and plow it and plant
it, and gather around you the comforts of home. And when you have made a character for energy and thrift, ask some young lady to share your home with you. We would say to every young lady, mark these men who are lounging around attempting to live by their wits, or on the interest of their debts; and when they ask you to share the lot of an aimless life, pass them on, for you cannot afford to marry a man
without prosperity or business habits, unless you wish to sell yourself for a mess of pottage. Again we would reiterate, young man, go to work.
While ten men watch for chances,
one man makes a chance. While ten men wait for something to turn up, one succeeds and is called a man of luck, the favorite of fortune.
Luck and fortune is the result of honest endeavor, work and toil, and if you would succeed, go to work.

There is no happiness in life,
there is no misery like that growing out of the dispositions which consecrate or desecrate the home.
Home should be so truly home that the weary, tempted heart could turn to it anywhere on the dusty highway of life and receive light and strength. What a blessing it is when weary with care and burdened with care and sorrow, to have a home to which we can go, and there in the midst of friends we love, forget our troubles and dwell in peace and quietness. Home is the chief school of human virtue. Its responsibilities, joys, sorrows, smiles, tears, hopes and solicitudes for
the chief interest of human life.

Sometimes a person's tongue gets them into trouble, watch the tongue;
it is your tongue, it belongs to you,
and is the only one for which you are responsible. Your neighbor's tongue may need care also, but that good remedy for an emergency of this kind.

No matter what kind of pain you have the beneficial effect of Sloan's Liniment is immediate. You lay it on lightly—no rubbing whatever and a pleasant warmth is felt at once.
The Liniment penetrates right to the bone and quickly stops the pain.

Mr. Chas. J. Budlong, of Anthony, R. I., Box 125, writes: "For many years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. My hips would swell to enormous proportions and my knee joints would pain me in the most excruciating, awful manner imaginable. I used often to have to fall from the bed into a chair and thence to the floor, when I wanted to get from my bed. I used only some six or eight bottles of your celebrated Liniment and was cured. I cheerfully recommend its use to all rheumatic sufferers. Refer to me if you so desire. All letters answered."

"Bob Cats" Reorganize.

An old and determined organization has been revived in the northeast part of Caldwell county, where promises to put an end to night-

element of farmers who are opposed to lawlessness.

About twenty-five years ago there was such an organization in Caldwell county, and by taking the law into its own hands stopped the outlawry that was then being carried on that county.
